STUDENT WRITINGS

One of our students wrote about her husband:

I get up at 5:30 in the morning every day. I take care of my husband. We have been married 50 years. I love him because he's a good man. I pray for my husband. He need help always and I need too. I pray for my family and friends every day too.

By S.D.

Another student wrote about his father:

He's a man with a big heart. A man with love, respect, and aloha. Back in the days when times were hard, he did everything he could to keep his family together. He taught us how to cook, clean house, gardening, farming, and fishing. We didn't (have) money but there was food on the table, and clothes on our backs. What more can you ask for? It was a hard life, but I wouldn't min(d) going through it again. Because I learned how to survive. I (have) love, respect, and aloha. The good Lord (watched) over him, and blessed him. That's why I love him. For he is my Dad, my only one.

This newsletter is written by, and for, YOU, our students. We would be very happy to print your story in our newsletter so others can read it too! Send us your stories, poems, jokes, etc. – we will print them for you.
